

Lost in the Dark

Life can be cruel;
It will leave you so cold.
Time heals all wounds,
Least that's what I'm told.
Pain in this world
Will never be gone.
But pain shared by two
Will be overcome!

Love can be lost,
You can never count the cost
Of a heart that is lost in the dark.

She stole my heart
With one glance of her eyes.
My mind told me no
But my heart otherwise.
When there's someone
Whom you love with your heart,
Don't be afraid;
Let none keep you apart.

Love can be lost,
You can never count the cost
Of a heart that is lost in the dark.

Now love mends all hearts
In this old world tonight.
And the love I have found –
It has shown me the light.

Love can be lost,
You can never count the cost
And my heart that is lost in the dark.

Love can be lost,
You can never count the cost
And my heart that is lost in the dark.
No, my heart is not lost in the dark.